BASEBALL

Ballardvale 6, Y. M. C. A. 5

Ballardvale captured additional honors at Glen Forest Saturday afternoon by defeating the Y. M. C. A., a team composed of the strongest players in Lawrence, in an eleven inning contest by a score of 6 to 5 thereby winning the championship of Lawrence and district. The game was close and exciting throughout and was in doubt until the last man was out in the eleventh inning. Both Doyle and Quigley pitched good ball each striking out eleven men, but Doyle was more steady and effective at critical stages of the game. Particularly was this true in the seventh inning when with three men on bases, he retired the side by striking out Maher who is regarded by many as the best batter in the city. The game was won in the eleventh inning as follows: Wheatley led off with a safe hit to right field and as the ball got away from Finnegan the right fielder reached second on the error. Wheatley reached third on McIntyre's out at first and scored the winning run and thereby ended the scoring in one of the hardest fought games of the season. The batting of Bradley, O'Donnell, Lynch, Gately, and John Finnegan was strong and timely. It was Ballardvale's eighteenth victory of the season. The score:

NORTH ANDOVER GRANGE ENTERTAINMENT.

On Tuesday night the North Andover Grange P. O. observed "Visitors' Night" at their place of meeting in the Unitarian hall at the Centre. The affair was one of the most pleasant and enjoyable that has been held for some time. The hall was filled to overflowing with visiting and local grangers who affiliated by fraternal bonds renewed old acquaintances and made many new. Special electric cars brought large parties from West Newbury and Merrimack granges. It is now an easy matter for the members of the above granges to visit North Andover as the Haverhill and Andover electric line forms a very convenient connecting link. In the party from West Newbury there were seventy-six while those from Merrimack numbered twenty-eight. Others were present from Methuen, Andover and West Boxford.

The entertainment of the evening was furnished by members of the West Newbury and Merrimack organizations. The program was in charge of Miss Lucy Prescott, lecturer of the "North Andover society." A three act play was given by the West Newbury people. The play was a strong one and was very well given. The audience which numbered nearly three hundred showed great appreciation.

The play was entitled, "Tompkins' Tired Man" and the cast of characters was as follows:

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME OF THE SEASON.

The first football game of the season was played on the Tavern lot on Saturday afternoon before a large crowd. The Blue Stockings were successful in defeating the Andover Clippers by a score of 10 to 0. Touchdowns were made for the former by Hargreaves on a crisp cross and by Kelly. The length of the halves was fifteen minutes each. Smith kicked off for the local boys, while Clements failed to kick the goals from the touchdowns. Hargreaves of Methuen acted as referee. George Wooley linesman. Capt. Johnson gave every man on his squad a chance to make good and the majority made a good showing, much to the satisfaction of the spectators. The line-up of the team was: Hargreaves, center; Curtis, right halfback; Johnson and Messer, left halfback; Stirling and Walker, right end; Greenwood and Kelly, left end; Green, quarterback.

Deserved Criticism.

There is a lot of good, hard common sense in the communication elsewhere criticizing the street railway management. With one exception we think it every bit deserved and that exception is the implied criticism of the railway employees. They are under very strict orders and have almost no discretionary power to vary their orders, no matter what the occasion. They, for the most part, know as well as anybody the absurdity of many things they do, but their orders are clear and to disobey is to forfeit the job.

No, the trouble is entirely with the management; with a management which has never more than half done anything in the way of improving the service on this line, and which seems destined to continue in the same old way.

The policy seems to have been clearly set forth and religiously lived up to, to squeeze the public into further concessions by abusing them through the concessions already enjoyed. So, now, when the public has bumped along for a sufficient time over that abominable stretch of rail in South Lawrence, when it has waited on turnouts without supper, or to the breaking of an engagement, until very tired, when the thousand and one petty annoyances of a big business on a poorly equipped single track have been all driven home to a suffering public, "then," say the street railway people, "they will be glad to give us the other half of their public highway."

But we believe they are reckoning without their host. The Andover public is taking a pretty careful account of stock of its street railway benefits these days, and the balance sheet seems far from satisfactory to most people. Our correspondent well suggests that they make better use of their present gifts before being granted any larger favors.

A Year of Encouragement.

The annual report of the "Home for Aged" directors is a most agreeable statement. Over $3000 is now in the treasury, and the friends of this most worthy object will get much courage for future work from this handsome sum. But there is yet much to be done before there can be realized that which is planned for. If it is true that the beginning of a fortune is the hardest part of the work of acquiring one, then, perhaps, the most trying period is just for the Andover Home for Aged, but there can be no letting up.

Every few months a new case comes to light where the great good of such a home as is proposed is made very clear. Only last week an old gentleman, whose name would be familiar to almost every reader of the Townsman, has been sent to an institution where it was never intended such as he should be kept. By his education, and long life of usefulness in the community, he deserves richly out of the town's helping hand, but there is no way open for bestowing that help. How many have said, "How I wish there was a home for Mr. X to go to!" This is the story told over and over; how long will the people of Andover let it be told without the concluding chapter?

Editorial Cinders.

How many incidents where the late Gen. Dale showed the "gentleman" will be recalled by reading Dr. Donald's tribute to that rare old man who has just gone to his reward. How well the writer remembers the holidays of thirty years ago when the road to the grand-children led past the old Dale homestead? Nothing of the whole ride lingers in the memory so vividly as does that splendid form as he stood in front of his house on Thanksgiving and Christmas mornings for many years and waved a greeting that is yet a sweet remembrance. There, indeed, was a gentleman born and bred, beloved wherever known.

The man who has succeeded this year in raising green tomatoes has done pretty well, but what praise can go to the gardener who raises such luscious ripe ones as Mr. Bodwell, the janitor at Pumphard, sends into the Townsman office? It might take a few more than a dozen to make a bushel, but certainly one would make a meal for a man. And speaking of fruit, raspberries are ripe again, as a full vine from Rev. F. H. Johnson's bears testimony.

The baseball boys down at Ballardvale are very proud of their well won right to the title of "Champions of the Shawsheen Valley," and they have a right to be. It has been a great baseball season in town, leaving the promise of an even greater another year. It would seem worth while to have a trophy another year, and we shall try to arrange for it, but let us keep every touch of professionalism out of it, and they may be the best team win.

The old army and the new were most happily joined in the marriage, on Wednesday, of the daughter of one of the leading officials of the old G. A. R., ex-commander Peter D. Smith, and the town's most distinguished representative in the new army, Lieut. Churchill. The newly wedded couple have the best wishes of the entire community where the families have so long been honored.

Boutwell was chosen secretary. On motion of John L. Smith, John N. Cole was nominated by acclamation as the republican candidate for representative.

Mr. Cole made a brief speech of acceptance, following which a district committee composed of the chairmen of the different town committees was named, and the convention was dissolved.

CHURCHILL-SMITH.

At Christ Episcopal church Wednesday night, Miss Mary Smith youngest daughter of Peter D. Smith past department commander of G. A. R., and Lieut. Marlborough Churchill, U. S. A., youngest son of the late Prof. John Wesley Churchill, D. D., were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. Winchester Donald, rector of the Trinity church, Boston, an uncle of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Miller Smith, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids Miss Esther Ward Smith, a sister of the bride, Miss Eleanor Jaffrey Thompson of Andover, Miss Muriel Bryant and Miss Adelaide Hamilton of Chicago, Miss Frances Lewis of Portland, Or., Miss Ruth Emery of Cambridge, Miss Edith Carey, daughter of Gen. A. B. Carey, U. S. A.

Dr. Donald Churchill, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and the ushers were Philip Putnam Chase and Edward Cook, classmates of the groom in Harvard, George F. Smith and J. Duke Smith of Andover, cousins of the groom, Pierpont L. Stackpole of Boston and Capt. Marcellus Garner Spinks and Wright Smith, U. S. A.

Selections from Wagner, Rubenstein and Schubert and the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches were rendered by Nathaniel H. Pride, a close friend of both bride and bridegroom. After the ceremony a reception was held at "The Maples," the bride's home. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, and the color effect was red.

The bride wore white liberty satin with French silk applique lace. The maid of honor's gown was of white lace crepe de chine, trimmed with silk chantilly lace. The bridesmaids were in white silk grenadine with white silk chantilly lace, and carried shower bouquets of many carnations. The bridegroom, ushers and guests from the army and national guard were in full dress uniform.

After a month's leave of absence Lieut. and Mrs. Churchill will live at Fort Howard, Maryland.

CARTER-RUSSELL.

A beautiful home wedding took place on Wednesday evening, Miss Nellie Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Russell and George Arthur Carter, son of Mrs. James O. Carter, being the contracting parties. Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the relatives and a few invited guests. The bride was handsomely gowned in white silk muslin over white silk and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor was Miss Lucy C. Mason, attired in a pink silk muslin over white silk and carrying pink roses. Frank Carter, a brother of the groom, served as best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Carrie Dean and Miss J. Gertrude Jackson, who wore dresses of white dotted muslin and carried white pinks. Miss Helen Ritchie and Miss Ruby Jackson officiated in the capacity of ushers and were gowned in white, carrying daybreak pinks. The wedding party entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin played by Miss S. S. Torrey. After the ceremony a reception was held, Mr. and Mrs. Russell assisting in receiving. The residence was beautifully adorned for the occasion, the hall and parlor being a perfect bower of autumn leaves and greenery. Refreshments were served by Caterer Rhodes. Mr. and Mrs. Carter left for a short wedding tour. They will be at home to their friends after Dec. 1, at their new residence on Wolcott avenue.

HOLT-COUTTS

On Wednesday evening the marriage of Miss Mary Lindsay, daughter of William C. Coutts, and Walter Ballard Holt, son of Ballard Holt, took place at the bride's home, 35 Maple avenue, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free church, in the parlor beneath an arch of evergreen and autumn leaves. The pretty double ring service was used. The bridal party entered to the music of the wedding march from Lohengrin and during the ceremony, "O Promise Me," was rendered on the piano by Miss Bertha Coutts, sister of the bride. The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown of white organdie over white silk and carried bride's roses. After the ceremony a reception was held which was attended by numerous friends of the happy couple. The ushers were John V. and Arthur W. Holt, brothers of the groom and William M. and David L. Coutts, brothers of the bride.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, which was profusely decorated with greenery, by Caterer Lane of Lawrence. Immediately after the reception the happy couple departed for a wedding tour and will be at home to friends after December 1st at 44 Whittier street. They were the recipients of numerous useful and ornamental gifts.

COMMUNICATION

Lawrence, Mass.,
Oct. 6, 1903.

The Andover Townsman,
Andover, Mass.
Editor of the Townsman:

If the Selectmen of Andover have the welfare of the citizens at heart, and can possibly compel the Boston & Northern St. Ry. to improve the service, an excellent opportunity is offered for them to bring pressure to bear to have telephones and the block system of signals put in between turnouts on the line between Lawrence and Andover.

On Sunday evening the writer was unfortunate enough to be one of a number of passengers on the car leaving Andover Square, somewhat late, at quarter of eight. We were run to the Tye Rubber Co. turnout and there waited for fifty-five minutes, while a like condition of affairs existed on the ink shop turnout, as writer has cause to know through friends who were on the car waiting there. Finally some one of the numerous though inefficient employees of the road managed to get word, partly by walking and partly by telephone, from the ink shop to the Tye Rubber Co., that they were waiting there for the inward bound cars to Lawrence. As a result of all this magnificent display of management the trip to Lawrence was made in an hour and a half.

I would further recommend to the Selectmen of Andover to deny to the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. any further rights as regards double tracking the system until they improve what they already have. This was done on Newbury Street, in Lawrence, where there is more travel than in Andover, and since the block system was inaugurated no delay of any moment has occurred.

AN INDIGNANT SUFFERER.

A Gentleman and a Boy.

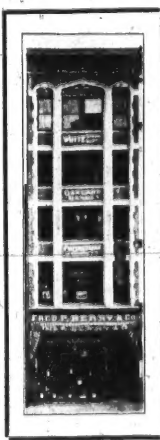

Editor of the Townsman,

Dear Sir: In 1860, I was waiting at the station in Andover, as was my habit at that time, the arrival of the five o'clock train from Boston on which my father was a passenger. I remember there used to be fifteen or twenty carriages and buggies gathered round the depot in a rather higglety-pigglety fashion, and it was sometimes difficult for one easily to extricate his buggy from the crowd. On the occasion to which I refer, I was somewhat amazed, after the arrival of the train, to have a gentleman of handsome presence seize my horse by the head and jerk him violently to one side. I do not recall the gentleman's words as he completed the act, but I remember distinctly they were lucid, terse, and terrible. He then entered his own carriage and drove off without obstruction. Two days after I received the most courteous of notes from this gentleman, making a very handsome apology to me for his rudeness, and explaining with gentleness the reason of his sudden outbreak. He had a plan for arranging carriages at the station by following which there would be no plan. I, however, was not privy to his plan.

On reading yesterday the announcement of the death of Surgeon-General William Johnson Dale, I felt as if I had lost my earliest distinguished friend, for the handsome gentleman who wrote me the letter of courteous apology was no other than Surgeon-General Dale. That chivalrous act, soothing the feelings of a frightened boy by a note such as one ordinarily writes only to his peer, made,

MEMORY OF JONATHAN EDWARDS

Honored by Noted Theologians at Andover Seminary—Bicentenary of His Birth Fittingly Celebrated.

The Edwards Bicentennial deserves to be observed in our churches, because (1) Edwards presents for contemplation a very remarkable instance of combination of highest intellectual power and Christian goodness. We have in our annals no clearer, more transparent, more impressive illustration of an entire consecration of genius and greatness to the promotion of the Christian faith. His humility was as marked as his mental superiority. He worshipped goodness. In one of his unpublished Observations—a copy of which I have just been reading—he says: "Goodness is more excellent than creature greatness. It is more divine. God communicates himself more immediately in it, and therefore God is pleased to make goodness the end of greatness; for he would make that in the creature, which is properly belonging to the nature of the creature, subordinate to that which is of God, or a communication of the divine nature in the creature." Goodness, to Edwards, was "a divine beauty and joy," and implies "communications of the Spirit of God." He deserves to be commemorated as a true saint. His faith was not that of a weakling, but of a man unsurpassed in the gifts of reason. There are special reasons now for holding up to view this type of man. (2) He rendered eminent service to the churches in the promotion of spiritual religion. (3) We owe to him very largely the principle on which rests in this country the relation of church and state. (4) He represents in a high degree the truths, motives, qualities, ideals, requisites to making American Christianity powerful at home, and influential in the evangelization of the world. He had a great appreciation of America's place and part in the progress and universal establishment of the kingdom of Redemption—a vision of an America for Christ.

Andover, Mass.

EGBERT C. SMYTH.

JONATHAN EDWARDS—1703-1903

The exercises commemorating the 200th anniversary of the birth of Jonathan Edwards opened at the Andover Theological seminary Sunday when at the morning service, the Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., of New York City, preached a commemorative sermon in the seminary chapel.

Dr. Richards took his text from Jeremiah 33:17: "For thus saith the Lord; David shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the house of Israel."

Our greatest need as a nation is for such manhood, rather than for increase of material possessions. In education, the best promise to a college not that it shall never want money, but that it shall never want a man. In business the most urgent need, not so much for more capital, but for "the man who can carry a message to Garcia." So in the social world.

The promise of the text is that somehow and somewhat that need shall be supplied. That promise was kept for God's people in New England two hundred years ago. The Puritanism of old New England was distinguished for the great honor it put upon simple manhood. Among all its representatives no more kindly character than Jonathan Edwards. We who participate in this celebration might not all confess ourselves his disciples in theology or philosophy; but we all unite in doing honor to the royal quality of his manhood. Whatever he said, whatever he did, even in the dark days of his rejection at Northampton, it was always with the royal bearing.

He owed little to outward accessories: pastor in a country village, then missionary to a tribe of Indians, lying when he fairly entered upon his office at Princeton. His greatness was achieved by the great force of his personality; and his story is a confirmation of God's promise that the man who is wanted shall not be wanting.

Events of Monday.

There were nine descendants of Edwards present as invited guests and the occasion attracted a large gathering of prominent Congregationalists. President Day of the Seminary presided at the afternoon service and Prof. E. Y. Hincks of the Seminary presided at the evening service. Prayer was offered at the opening of the exercises by the Rev. Calvin M. Clark, one of the Edwards family present.

The opening address was by Prof. John W. Plafner, D. D., of the Seminary, who described the religious conditions in New England in the time of Edwards, saying that Edwards found New England irreligious and left it marked with the impress of his religious convictions.

In his address on "The Philosophy of Edwards," Prof. Frederick J. E. Woodbridge of Columbia University, said: "The influence of Edwards on American thinking has been far reaching and profound, but is today largely neglected. The general neglect of his work has not come about through any direct refutation of it. It has rather been put aside, or account of its lack of philosophical thoroughness, as no longer stimulating. Yet Edwards was a philosopher of exceptional merit, with a keen logical sense and an extraordinary originality. His early notes show that even in his youth he was in possession of a philosophical position, the broad outlines of which were well defined. His lack of philosophical thoroughness is thus the more remarkable, and is worth study on account of the light it throws on the character of his thinking. An examination of the more distinctly philosophical writings of Edwards discloses the fact that his philosophical positions bear no necessary relation to his theological convictions, and are as tenable as a Calvinistic theology. The work of the philosopher and of the theologian appear to be the work of two minds sharply contrasted. The philosopher sees a God, of whose infinite fullness of perfection and love all things are made, and that the theologian sees a God, who is the judge of the righteous and the wicked. Edwards' latest writings suggest a possible awakening to this quality and to the need of adjustment, but the two sides of his nature were never really united. In seeking some explanations of this duality of intellect, one finds that his natural bent was toward philosophy, but his philosophical development was arrested by emotional experiences, which revealed to him the sovereignty of God with the force of an intuition. This was sufficient to determine the character of his theology and of his influence. His influence has been critical for the development of American thought, giving it, so long as he affected it, the theological rather than the philosophical cast. In spite of the excellency of his philosophy, it is as the theologian that he has been remembered."

Following the afternoon exercises a banquet was served in Bartlett chapel, where were also displayed many of the first editions of Edwards' books, borrowed for the occasion from the Harvard college library, and other sources; many sermon manuscripts and unpublished essays, and several letters, photographs, etc.

At the evening service Prof. Egbert C. Smyth of the Seminary spoke of Edwards' theology, particularly his doctrine of God. He said in brief:

"Edwards is too large for ordinary measuring rods. There is always in him something that seems to require the hypothesis of a fourth dimension. He sought for wholes, thought in them. This, more than his remarkable analytic power, presents his chief characteristic. He hesitated to accept the presidency at Princeton because of his desire to unite a theology, showing the admirable contexture and harmony of the whole."

"A study of his philosophy naturally starts with his youthful essay 'If Being.' Something is 'Absolute Nothing.' It is the aggregate of the absurd contradictions in the world. This Being is infinite, omnipresent, the consciousness which includes all. Edwards never lost his early vivid sense of the reality and knowable presence of God, an immediateness, however, which does not exclude revelation through media. One would like to see him torn on the horns of his dialectic an agnosticism that knows that we cannot know; and especially that spiritual verities cannot be verified. He recognized the existence in other religions than the Hebrew or Christian of divine revelation. He would not, if living now, turn a cold shoulder on the Higher criticism. He believed in courage and sincerity of utterance. He would emphasize, as he did, that the gospel is its own evidence, without ignoring that there are essential facts."

"He accepted the doctrine of the Trinity expressed in the formula 'three persons but one God.' He believed that the doctrine, though mysterious, is not a blank to reason, that the mode of being it involves has a resemblance in human consciousness of self. The likeness and affinity between the divine and the human is with him fundamental in his numerous discussions. In the largely unpublished 'Observations of the Trinity' it is applied also to the doctrine of the Incarnation. Edwards does not recognize, however, legitimate deductions from this principle which would correct both excesses and defects in his anthropology, preaching and practical theology."

The unpublished manuscripts show clearly the history and character of his view of the purpose or end of God in creation. The treatment of this subject connects with that of the Trinity. The relation of the two was early perceived. His view is a strikingly contradictory to the conception of an enthroned selfishness. The end of creation is divine self-communication, which is the principle and essence of Edwards' thought of the Trinity. God creates because He is Love. The effect of his teaching appeared in lives

Score 0-0. Referee, Mr. Low, Andover. Timekeeper, Collins. Linesman, Hammond. Twenty and fifteen minute periods.

The game was started by Andover kicking off to North Andover. North Andover was held for downs, and by gains through the line Andover advanced the ball ten yards. No. Andover failed to gain, and the ball was forced by steady gains to the No. Andover 20-yard line. A goal from the field was attempted, but failed. After the free kick Andover kept the ball and advanced steadily, being held twice on the ten yard line. The half ended with the ball near No. Andover's goal. Throughout the whole half the ball was not forced into Andover's territory once.

Early in the second half Thompson went around No. Andover's right end, got clear of the line and had an open field for a sure touchdown. But he caught his foot in the tall grass and fell. The ball was forced by steady gains through the line to within twenty-five yards of the North Andover goal, when the game ended.

Throughout both halves the Andover team played a stronger game than their opponents and showed wonderful dash and spirit. For a light team it is certain that the Punchard team will do well this season.

Today there is a game with the Danvers High school at Danvers. The team leaves the square at 2 o'clock on the car going to Wilson's Corner.

The line up for the game today is: Danvers—Sldmore, 1 e; Lee, r g; Kimball, r t; Danforth, r e; Chase, q b; Porter, 1 h b; Taask, r h b; Merrill, f b. Andover will line up as in Friday's game except that Towse will have a place in the line.

Last Friday there was a meeting of the Athletic Association. Principal Pierce spoke, expressing himself as heartily in favor of the right kind of school athletics. Supt. Palmer and Mr. Low also spoke. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Davies '04; vice president, Miss Lucy Abbott, '05; secretary, Miss Lindsay, '04; treasurer, Wood, '05. One member of the Governing Board of the Association will be elected by each class.

Wednesday afternoon the class in Geology visited Indian Ridge.

The following is the record of attendance at Punchard School for the month of October 2: Total membership, 128; average daily membership, 120.9; average daily attendance, 117.5; average daily absence, 3.4; percentage of attendance, 97.18; cases of tardiness, 47; cases of dismissal, 17; percentage not tardy, 97.9.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder, then, causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

I was afflicted with catarrh. I took medicines of different kinds, giving each a fair trial; but gradually grew worse until I could hardly hear, taste or smell. I then concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was cured and have not had any return of the disease since.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Cures catarrh—it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

Letter from Hong Kong.

The following letter, received from a sailor on board the U. S. S. Cincinnati, will be interesting to his friends in town.

Hong Kong, China,
August 19, 1903.

Editor Andover Townsman,
Andover, Mass.

Dear Sir: I wish to again say a few words to the readers and friends of the Townsman to let them know how I spent my Fourth of July in the East. I was at Colombo, Ceylon, on the Fourth, and had a very good time. The day was spent on board the ship and we had for sport among the crew: spud race, sack race, three legged race, and obstacle race. There were to have been boat races between the Albany and the Cincinnati, but on account of an accident at the fort on shore, the races were postponed until the 5th. While firing a salute in honor of the 4th, one man was killed and another wounded by the bursting of a gun, so when the races took place on the 5th, they were as follows: Sailing race won by Cincinnati, gig race won by Albany, cutter race won by Albany, and shovel race won by Cincinnati. There was quite a crowd on board from the various other ships in port, and from the shore.

While at Colombo I had the pleasure of visiting the Colombo museum and I really think it is the best museum I was ever in. We lay at Colombo a month, and had plenty of shore leave there. After leaving there we went to Singapore, and after coaling the ship we left for Hong Kong. We have not had any liberty here on account of sickness on shore. I suppose we will spend our Xmas around here for we are to stay at this station two years.

While in Aden, India, I had the pleasure of seeing the man who left New York in 1807, clad in a newspaper suit and without one cent in his pocket, starting to walk around the world. He came on the ship and gave a lecture and at that time he had walked 38,000 miles and worn out 138 pairs of shoes. He said he expected to get back to New York in the allotted time. He had ten months to do it in. He is doing it on a wage of $5,000 (five thousand dollars) and he was not allowed to beg anything and was to have $5,000 cash when he returned, which amount he was to make on the trip.

We expect to leave here in a few days for Shanghai. I received my Townsman of July 10 today and I was pleased indeed to be able to get a home paper while I am so far away from home.

I beg to remain,

Respectfully,
J. S. S. Cincinnati.

200 NORTH ADAMS IN THE HOOSAC MOUNTAINS, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10TH.

Already the autumn foliage has commenced to appear and the fresh atmosphere of October makes one long for another short respite from work. This is the season of the year when the mountains are more beautiful than ever and the Hoosac Mountains in Western Massachusetts are a grand sight at just this season. The weather is suitable for "tramping" through the mountains and the beautiful valley or taking a trolley to many interesting places nearby.

The Boston & Maine excursion to North Adams on Saturday, October 10th, gives the excursionist an opportunity to take in all the beauties of an Indian summer in the Hoosac Mountains, and to enjoy the health-giving tramp or ride through this noted region.

The round trip rate from Boston is only $2.00. Any person desiring can, upon showing their excursion ticket and payment of fifty cents at the Hoosac Tunnel Station, procure a round trip ticket to Wilmington, Vt., on the Saturday of the 10th of October, to the town of Wilmington. A bus, which is a dinner car, is provided at the "Hoosac Tavern," Wilmington, and the ride is through the prettiest portion of upper "Hoosac" Valley. Tickets are on sale at the Ticket Office, 22 Washington Street, and at Union Station. Special train will leave Boston at 8:30 A. M., the Hoosac Tunnel at North Adams, returning, leave North Adams at 4:30 P. M. Train will stop at Westham in both directions, and tickets will be on sale only at Boston. Tickets are also good returning on regular trains on October 11th and 12th.

Reduced Prices on Slightly Used Ivers & Pond Pianos

We have a few desirable pianos of our own make, that have had slight use in one way or another. We frequently loan new pianos for use at rentals or rent them to good people; and sometimes have pianos returned from our dealers' stores. In many cases such slight use as the pianos have had is really an advantage, as the action and strings get thoroughly settled, and will wear and stand in time better for it. Some of these can hardly be told from new. Easy payments? A list of our bargains in used pianos might interest you. Send for it.

whose aim was to glorify God, and who looked upon His universe as "their friend." His treatise on the Freedom of the Will established the necessity of motive, but may be improved. The question of determinism belongs to philosophy. As between chance and order the decision is not difficult.

I. Samuel V. Cole of Wheaton seminary read the following original poem:

A WITNESS TO THE TRUTH.

I. God's truth has many voices: sun and star
And mountain and the deep that roars after Speak the great language: and, of mightier worth,
The lips and lives of Godlike men on earth.

For truth wrought out in human life
Has power
Which no truth else has—since man's natal hour.

What were the world without the long strong chain
Of faithful witnesses, whose heart and brain

Have thronged with truth God gave them without these
Who, as with hands that link together, stand

Reaching across the years to that dear
Hand
Which touched blind eyes to sight,
wrote on the sand,

And lifted Peter from the drowning sea?
Who, better than through book or creed,

Draw down their living life the fire we need
Of life from Him, who is the Life indeed?

II. A good man's work is of his time and place Where Duty lifts the fulness of his face.
Translate it elsewhere and you do him
wrong:

His life, his spirit—what of great and fair
And true was in him—O, that doth belong

To all the ages and dwells everywhere,
And there he stands, this nobly-moulded man;

You can not miss him if you turn and scan
The land's horizon: howsoever men talk,
He still is of us; no mere name; a rock
The floods may beat upon nor wash away;

Foregatherer of the times; his loftier height
Flushed with the gleams of sweetness
and of light

That wait their fulness till some later
day;
An eagle spirit soaring in the sky
And mingling with the things that can not die.

How full of fire he was, and how sincere Soldier of faith and conscience without fear!

And humble as the little spring-lily flower
Opening its heart out to the Heavenly Power;

Not, and dreamer of the things to be;
A man of Godly vision—such was he,
This Dante of New England, who declared

The dread Inferno of man's sin and The Purgatorio where his eyes might trace

The workings out and upward of God's grace;
And yet who clomb with happier step
Of man's aspiring and undying hope

Toward Paradise, there to find his goal
At last—the Blessed Vision of the Soul!

III. All this he was, whatever be the name
He goes by in the roll of earthly fame,
We judge him as we would ourselves always

Be judged; as Christ will judge the world one day;
Not by things done, however great they be.

But by those longings which immortally Outran achievement since the world began;

Yea, by the spirit in him; that's the man.

What though the vain world scoffed and patting his great
He had the Master and he followed Him.

He wielded truth to meet the age's stress
Of circumstance nor made it truth the less.

Truth is a sword that flashes, now this way,
Now that, the single purpose to obey.
Nay, truth is large; no man hath seen
it whole;

Larger than words; it brooks not the control
Of argument and of distinctions nice;
No age or creed can hold it, no device
Of speech or language; ay, no syllogism.

Truth is the sun, and reasoning is the prism
You lift before it; whence the light is thrown

In various colors; each man takes his own.
Is this man takes the red, as you the blue.

Is yours the whole? and is his truth not true?

Spirit is truth, however the colors fall;
The fact comes back to spirit after all,
Saves in nobility the man who dare obey his Vision—mark what courage there!

Does he take the sword of his belief in
hand,
Whom he faced the world with it,
And mind not sacrifice, and count some dross?

For truth's dear sake, and life and all things lose,
And need dream of failure, never doubt

What issue when the stars of God
come out?

IV. And would that we had power like him to rise
Clear of the thralldom of all compromises.

Like him whose foot on this foundation stood—
That God is sovereign and that God is good.

Is such a creed outworn? And tell us,
Have we no use for it? Alas, the day,
Shall the things that savor of the soul,
If men forget the sovereign rights of God?

The true life's master-word is still,
"Obey."

The man of power rejoicing cries, "I can."

"I may," the man of pleasure; but
"we trust,
And all the world trusts with us, still
the man
Hearing a different voice, who says,
"I must."

O, Conscience, Conscience, how we need thee,
Wind, fire and earthquake pass; the time abounds
In these great voices; but, O, where art thou?

Is thy voice lost amid life's grosser rounds?

Not so earth's towers and battlements
decay;
Thrones tremble and fall; old scriptures lose control;

But, as God lives, thou livest; thou wilt stay,
O, Conscience, God's vicegerent in the soul!

We are thy bondmen, and thy ways
are good;
Thou art what makes us greater than the dust.

We come from; and still, however we would,
Thy law is ever on us and we must.

VI. The man who takes "an inward sweet delight
In God," shines like a candle in the night.

"The world's black shadow of care and doubt and sin
Is beaten backward by that power within."

He walks in freedom; neither time nor
place
Can fetter such a spirit; in his face
A light, not of this earth, forever glows.

For, when he will, strong spiritual wings
Bear him aloft, till silent grows all strife.

Silent the tumult and the toil of life;
The home of men, far off, like grains
of sand Lie scattered along the wrinkles of the land.

All silent; not a sound or breath may rise
To mar the eternal harmony of these skies.

Through which he goes, still higher,
toward the line
Where sun and moon have no more
need to shine;

And there, where sordid feet have never
He walks in joy the tablelands of God.

VII. How much he hath to teach us even yet,
Lost life—should kill us with its toll
and fret!

Things of the earth men seek to have
and hold;
They build and waste again their mounds of gold.

O me! the din of life, the bell that dials
The traffic, and the roaring of the wheels!

Work glows and grows and satisfies us not;
Weary we are of what our hands have wrought.

Weary of action with no time for thought.
The much we do—how little it must count

Without some pattern showed us in the mount;
Who seeks and loves the company of great

Ideals, and moves among them, soon or late
Will learn their ways and language, unaware

Take on their likeness, ay, and some day share
Their immortality, as this man now
Before whose life we reverently bow.

VIII. So shines the lamp of Edwards; still it sends
One golden beam down the long track
of years,
This resolute truth which neither yields nor spends.

That life—true life, is not of what appears,
Not of the things the world piles wide
and high;

'Tis of the spirit and will never die;
His life was noble; wherefore let the world
White with his memory shine beside the way—

Adding its comfort to our human need—
Like some fair tablet whereon men
unaware

"Lo, here and there great witnesses appear—
The meek, the wise, the fearless, the sincere;

They live their lives and witness to the word;
No time so evil but their voice is heard;

No sword nor flame can stop them;
though they die
They grow not silent; they must cry their cry.

Time's waves break dying on the shore;
They cry forever and forevermore;
For in and through such men as these men are.

God lives and works, and it were easier
To dry the seas and roll the mountain flat
Than banish God; we build our hope on that."

Professor James Orr, D.D., of the United Free Church College of Glasgow, Scotland, was the last speaker.
Dr. Orr's subject was "The Influence of Edwards."

After speaking of the satisfaction he had in being at that meeting and his own early respec-tation of the name of Edwards, Dr.
Orr proceeded to discuss the characteristics and influence of the great New Englander. He spoke of the name of Edwards not only among theologians, but among philosophers, in other fields, and quoted P. D. Maurer, on the advantage to American thinkers
of adhering to Edwards and the foundations he laid as their starting point.

It is customary to praise Edwards for his metaphysical acuteness, but in the pure light of intellect is always united with the true grasp of God in the heart.

The white
light is one with white heat, Edwards's metaphysical genius and contributions to theology and philosophy were next in him. There was an order in his thought, the purity of which was inconspicuous. The intensity of his nature and the side of religion, by which all other interests seemed to melt into the sense of the sovereignty of God threw other truths out of proportion. There are few more terrible cases in literature than Edwards's, as shown in the punishment of the last. Even in London, and quoted P. D. Maurer, on the advantage to American thinkers

tions he laid as their starting point.

Gumption.

To the Editor of the Townsman:

Dear Sir: It is said that our schools are producing intelligent, broad minded young men and women. I am pleased to see a plume of your paper giving school news. Some time ago I had the pleasure of meeting half a dozen young folks. They were about to graduate from a high school and were what they called studying Shakespeare and hearing that I was a crank on the Bard of Avon, they asked me to hear them read some scenes from "The Merchant of Venice."

As the Boer war was then being fought and the Boston Herald was handed to me I wished to look at the paper. But as often happens I could not find my spectacles and handing the paper to one of the boys, I told him to read the leading article on the war. Will you believe me when I state that he did not know the leading article, more than that not one of the party knew. On being shown where the leading article was poor fellow, he tried to read it. I must say I never listened to anything so poorly read. So much for our introduction to Shylock. "3000 ducats well," I asked how many dollars that would amount to—no answer. On coming to the answer Shylock gives when they ask him to dine—"as to smell of pork, eat of the habitation which your prophet the Nazarene conjured the devil into"—I was really astonished that not one of these clever young men knew what was meant by the Nazarene, neither did they know the story of the Devil going into the swine as told in the Scriptures.

When Shylock says:
"When Jacob grazed his Uncle Laban's sheep from our holy Abraham was—
As his wise mother wrought in his behalf—
The third possessor; aye he was the third."

Jacob and Laban were new names to my young friends. After enjoying an hour talking and reading we came to Portia's great speech.

"The quality of mercy is not strained,
That in the course of justice none of us
Should see salvation."

This theology of the immortal gracious and beautiful Portia was a complete blank so far as being understood by these graduates.

Perhaps these boys knew things today considered more important and useful than these simple references to an old book. But to me it showed want of gumption and a thing called common sense.

There is a good story told of a young clergyman in Scotland who had just got license to preach. This young man called to see his grandmother and get her blessing. The grandmother said,
"Weel Jamie, I am glad to see ye, ye will be a learned man if ye pay attention and ye will get the grace o' God for the asken, but if ye dinna hae gumption and common sense God help ye."

Trusting after three months vacation to be able to let you hear from me now and again.

I am, dear sir,
Yours respectfully,
IAN MACDOUGALL.

CHOIRMASTER HAY HAS TENDERED RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Mr. Thomas Hay as choirmaster of the Second Baptist church will come as a surprise to many in the congregation of that church. Mr.
Hay has been in charge of the music of the church for three years and his capabilities and untiring efforts have resulted in the building up of one of the largest and best choirs in Lawrence.
His resignation takes effect immediately and the many music lovers in the congregation will regret his departure.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH
Cure Catarrh by Nature's Own Method.
Every Breath of Hyomei Brings Relief.

Nearly everyone who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by dosing the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate;
but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if the bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

E. M. & W. A. Allen have sold a great many Hyomei outfits and the more they sell, the more convinced they are that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not cure.

STRONGEST EVIDENCE OF FAITH
E. M. & W. A. Allen Guarantee that
"Hyomei Will Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh in Andover."

When one of the most reputable concerns in Andover guarantees that a medicine will effect a cure or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes as to the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that E. M. & W. A. Allen are selling Hyomei, the treatment that has made so many cures of both acute and chronic catarrh in Andover and vicinity.

Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a liquid that has to be taken with a tablespoon or wineglass. Just breathe it by the aid of an inhaler that comes in every outfit and benefit will be seen from the first treatment.

It destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs, and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone.
It cures catarrh of the head and throat,
or of the stomach, liver and kidneys.
Wherever mucous membrane contains catarrhal germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing. When using this treatment, the air you breathe will be

ANDOVER ROLLED UP A BIG SCORE.

Phillips Andover overwhelmed the Dorchester Athletic Association eleven on Brothers field Wednesday afternoon winning by one of the largest scores ever run up by an Andover eleven, 60 to 0.

The visitors were light and lacked team work, but fought gamely throughout.

Andover put in its strongest team and with the exception of a few minutes in the first half had no difficulty in gaining ground.

Bullock made Andover's third touchdown after a 56-yard run on a fake kick. Hobbs secured the ball on the next kickoff, and behind splendid interference ran 50 yards for a touchdown. Dorchester could not prevent long gains and Bullock was soon over the line again.

Dillon made the next long run, 40
yards for a touchdown after a punt.
Stuart figured in a peculiar way in the second half. Cummings punted to Dorchester's 20-yard line. The ball struck a Dorchester player and bounced back 10 yards into Stuart's arms,
the Andover tackle making a touchdown.

Tucker and Meade did fine work for the visitors. The summary:

An accident, which, but for the presence of mind of the driver, might have been disastrous, occurred to one of Isaac C. Brown's team's Wednesday afternoon, between 2 and 3 o'clock, on Broadway. The wagon, heavily loaded with lumber, was being drawn down Broadway by a span of horses, and while descending town house hill the pole broke. The heavy wagon began to slide down the hill rapidly upon the horses. With rare presence of mind, the driver, Isaac Peeney, retained his seat, and lashing the horses with his whip, kept them ahead of the load as it came down the hill. The team kept straight down Broadway to Park street where, with the assistance of Mr. Beaver, who works at Graham's shop, the horses were stopped. The wagon had run down upon the horses only slightly and consequently they were only slightly injured about the legs. Had it not been for the presence of mind of the driver they might have been killed by being crushed under the heavy load. The team was taken into Peter F. Graham's shop for repairs. Only the pole was broken. The driver escaped without injury.

HE LEARNED A GREAT TRUTH.

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley: "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for this same reason that you are told again and again that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cures colds and grip; that it counteracts any tendency of these diseases to result in pneumonia, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. M. H. S. WON FIRST GAME.

The Methuen High school football team went to No. Andover Wednesday and played their first game of the season, defeating Johnson High school by the score of 17 to 0. The local boys were accompanied by a good sized crowd of rooters who encouraged the contestants by their presence and school yells.

The game was an interesting one. Methuen carried their opponents off their feet in the first part of the game, scoring the 17 points in nine minutes of play. No scoring was done after that.

The game was called at 3.30 o'clock. Douglas for Methuen kicked off and Curley rushed the ball back a short distance. Methuen secured it in a short time, and after a few attempts, Robinson rounded the end for a 25-yard run, and a touchdown after four minutes' play. Douglas failed at try for goal. Johnson kicked off to Robinson who made a spectacular run the full length of the field, scoring a touchdown. Douglas kicked goal.

The ball was again put in play, and after a short time was rushed up to the Johnson line. Robinson again going over for the third touchdown. Douglas kicked the goal, making the score 17 to 0. The ball was kept well in Johnson's territory during the remainder of the half.

The second half was hotly contested. Methuen having the best of the game, however. Fifteen minutes' play. All the Methuen boys put up a first-class game. Look and Robinson made good gains around the end, while Douglas and Norris did good work at breaking through the line. Cunliffe acted as referee, Denham time keeper, and Harry Brown linesman for the Methuen side. The line-up was:

NEW CAUCUS LAW

Full Text of the Luce Law Governing Caucuses.

The new Luce law governing caucuses which was so successfully tried out at the Boston primaries last month, has resulted in many requests for the text of the law and it will be found below in full:

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. For the purpose of this act the term "election law" shall apply to chapter eleven of the Revised Laws. The term "Primary" shall apply to any meeting held in accordance with the provisions of this act. The term "municipal party" shall apply to a party other than a political party which at the preceding city or town election polled for mayor or a selectman at least three per cent of the entire vote cast in the city or town for that office; this term shall be used only with reference to caucuses for the nomination of city or town officers.

SECTION 2. All caucuses of political and municipal parties in cities, and in towns using official ballots, which towns at an annual meeting vote that primaries shall be held therein, except caucuses to elect delegates to conventions held for the election of delegates to national conventions, and for the choice of ward committees after the change of ward lines, shall be held at the same time and place as primaries, and shall be conducted in general accordance with the provisions of law concerning the conduct of elections and the manner of voting thereat, except as otherwise provided herein.

Towns voting that primaries shall be held therein may, at a legal meeting called for the purpose, not less than one year after the date of the first primary held therein, revoke such action. Cities or towns which vote to hold primaries or to rescind such action shall forthwith notify the secretary of the Commonwealth of such vote.

SECTION 3. Notices of caucuses in the city of Boston shall be issued not less than twenty-two days prior to the day on which the caucuses are to be held, and shall be held on the first Tuesday after the date of the election, and the secretary of each city committee in the city of Boston shall deliver to the election commissioners, not less than ten week days before the day upon which the caucuses are to be held, hereinafter provided for, in the afternoon of the last day, the nomination papers filed with him.

SECTION 4. Primaries shall be held on the sixth Tuesday preceding state elections, on the third Tuesday preceding city elections, excepting Boston, where they shall be held on the fourth Tuesday preceding the city election, and on the second Tuesday preceding town elections, or any special section.

In Boston they shall be held by precincts as established for elections; elsewhere, wholly or partly by wards, precincts or townships, and by the aidmen or selectmen may from time to time determine.

SECTION 5. Nominations shall be made in accordance with the provisions of chapter one hundred and seven of the election law, except that in the case of an election district not wholly within one ward or town the signatures of nomination papers for that district may reside anywhere within the district.

SECTION 6. Ballots for each political and municipal party, ballot boxes, voting lists, specimen ballots, blank forms and apparatus, seals and record books, shall be provided and treated in accordance with the provisions of chapter one hundred and seven of the election law, except that the number of ballots shall be determined by the election commissioners in Boston, by the city clerk in any other city, and by the town clerk in towns, and shall not for any ward or town exceed one ballot of each party for each voter therein; and the ballots for each party shall be printed on paper of a different color from that on which the ballots for any other party are printed.

SECTION 7. The provisions of the election law relating to election officers, voting places for elections, election apparatus and blanks, calling and conduct of the elections, manner of voting at elections, counting and recounting of votes at elections, corrupt practices and penalties, shall apply to primaries, except as otherwise provided herein.

SECTION 8. In wards or towns where at elections voting is by precincts, but at primaries by wards or townships, the city or town clerk shall designate which of the election officers shall serve as primary officers.

Except in Boston no person shall be ineligible to serve as a primary officer because he is a candidate for or member of a ward or town committee.

SECTION 9. The following sections of the election law relating to election officers are hereby amended as follows: Section one hundred and seventy-one, by striking out the word "September" in the first and second lines, and inserting in place thereof the word "August";

Section one hundred and seventy-two, by striking out the word "October" in the second and third lines, and inserting in place thereof the word "August";

Section one hundred and seventy-three, by striking out the word "November" in the tenth line, and inserting in place thereof the word "September";

Section one hundred and seventy-five, by striking out the word "first day of November" in the second line and also in the sixth line, and inserting in place thereof the words: "twentieth day of September";

SECTION 10. Polls at every primary shall be open during such hours, not less than nine in cities or four in towns, as may be designated by the board of election commissioners in Boston, the aldermen of other cities and the selectmen of towns.

SECTION 11. When in a primary the voter seeks to pass the guard-rail, he shall be asked by one of the ballot clerks which party ballot he desires and the ballot clerk upon reply shall distinctly announce the same and give him such party ballot. The voter's selection shall be checked on the voting list used by the ballot clerks and said list shall be returned to the election commissioners in Boston, or to the city clerk in any other city, or to the town clerk in towns, for preservation during the succeeding calendar year.

A copy of the party entries on each list shall be used at subsequent primaries for determining with what party the voter has been enrolled.

No voter enrolled under the provisions of this act shall be allowed to receive the ballot of any political party except that with which he is so enrolled, but he may change his enrollment by appearing in person before the election commissioners in Boston, the city clerk in any other city, or the town clerk in towns, and requesting in writing to have his enrollment changed to another party; but such change shall not take effect until the expiration of ninety days after the voter so appears; but the political party enrollment of a voter shall not preclude him from receiving at a primary the ballot of any municipal party, though in no one primary shall he receive more than one party ballot.

Any voter who denies the accuracy of his list may deposit his ballot with the endorsement required by section two hundred and thirty-five of the election law; but said ballot shall not be counted on a recount if it appears that the party enrollment of such voter was correct.

SECTION 12. In the counting of votes when the ballots are removed from the ballot box, they shall first be sorted into piles, one for each party, and each party shall be counted and sealed separately. Votes shall be counted only for nominations of the party on whose ballot they appear.

SECTION 13. The election commissioners in Boston, the city clerks in other cities, and town clerks in towns, shall canvass the returns of votes for delegates to conventions and for members of ward and town committees, determine the result, issue proper certificates thereof to the successful candidates, and notify the chairmen of the city or town committees of the respective parties as to the persons who have been elected.

SECTION 14. If a majority of a delegation or of a ward or town committee is not elected, or if there is a tie vote for candidates for an elective vacancy, there shall be deemed to be a delegation or a ward or town committee, and the provisions of section one hundred and fifty-two of the election law.

SECTION 15. In Boston petitions for recounts after primaries shall be filed before five o'clock in the afternoon of the second day thereafter.

SECTION 16. In Boston conventions to nominate candidates for school committee shall be called for and held on the seventh day after the primaries before the city election. Certificates of nomination shall be filed before five o'clock in the afternoon of the ninth day after said primaries; objections thereto, withdrawals therefrom, and all nomination papers, shall be filed before five o'clock in the afternoon of the eleventh day after said primaries; certificates of nomination to fill vacancies caused by withdrawals shall be filed before five o'clock in the afternoon of the twelfth day after said primaries.

SECTION 17. This act shall be deemed to be in amendment of the election law, and so much of said law as is inconsistent with the provisions of this act is hereby repealed.

SECTION 18. This act shall take effect in Boston upon its passage, in other cities and in towns using official ballots the question of its acceptance shall be submitted to the voters at the next annual state election and the act shall take effect as soon after its acceptance by a majority of the voters voting thereon as the provision of law relative to nominations can be complied with.

Approved June 22nd, 1903.

The game on Friday afternoon between eleven representing the Johnson High school and the Panchard High school of Andover on the Tavern lot resulted in a tie, neither side being able to score. The contest was an interesting one as the teams were very evenly matched. O'Brien, at quarter, ran his team well and it is a relief to those interested to make this point clear, as it has been in doubt. Captain O'Brien at left half put life into his team.

GENERAL DALE DEAD

North Andover's Grand Old Man Goes to His Reward.

Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock, Dr. William J. Dale passed away at the Dale homestead, 145 Dale street, North Andover. He had been failing in health for some years. His last illness was a long one. The iron constitution of the "grand old man" at last succumbed, and the soul of this "true gentleman of the old school" has gone to his Maker. Death came at the age of 88 years, one month and two days.

Dr. William Johnson Dale was born in Gloucester, Mass., on September 15th, 1815. His father, who was a physician before him, was Dr. Ebenezer Dale, and his mother, Miss Serena Johnson. Dr. Ebenezer Dale studied his profession with Dr. Thomas Kittredge of North Andover, a veteran of the Revolution, and the builder of the present Kittredge mansion at North Andover Centre. Dr. Kittredge served as a surgeon in the First Massachusetts regiment, and was at the Battle of Bunker Hill. While pursuing his studies in North Andover, the patient male for some years. His last illness was a long one. The iron constitution of the "grand old man" at last succumbed, and the soul of this "true gentleman of the old school" has gone to his Maker. Death came at the age of 88 years, one month and two days.

The Johnsons emigrated from Kent in England in 1635, built the first mill academy of that name and took part in the Revolutionary war. Mrs. Dale was the daughter of Lieut. William Johnson. Three of her brothers were William Johnson, Esq., for seven years a representative and ten years a senator, who lived in North Andover; James Johnson, a prominent Boston merchant, and Col. Theron Johnson, who helped to found the Johnson High school.

Dr. Dale was a student at the old Franklin Academy, where he was fitted for Harvard college, under the famous preceptor, Simon Patten, a severe but widely known educator in that day. He was one of the few remaining graduates of that medical institution. While at North Andover he lived with his grandparents and was a great favorite, being very fond of his uncles and aunts in student life.

He completed his preparation at Harvard and graduated in 1840. He was in the class of 1837. Among his classmates were: Dr. Henry J. Bigelow, Richard H. Dana, author of "Two Years Before the Mast," Nathaniel Holmes, Charles Theo. Russell and Henry D. Thoreau. Entering the medical school he graduated in 1840.

His college course finished, he opened an office in Boston and practiced medicine until appointed Surgeon General of the State of Massachusetts by Governor Andrews in 1860. He served in this position through the Civil war and gave particular attention to and was noted for his exactness concerning the sanitary condition of his surroundings. His advice was the making of many younger physicians who served as surgeons under him. For 21 years he served as State Surgeon until the office was abolished under Governor Benjamin Butler in 1881.

On his retirement the deceased moved to North Andover and took up his residence in the home of his school days. He had two sons, one died in youth, the other, William J. Dale, Jr., passed away on November 5th, 1896, in Springfield, Mass. He was at that time serving as Railroad Commissioner and had served as selectman in his own town.

To Ebenezer Dale and Serena Johnson were born seven sons and two daughters, of which deceased was the third eldest. The brothers were James, Ebenezer, Samuel, Theron and Edward, and the sisters, Martha and Serena. The former married Dr. Swift, one of the best known New York physicians and the latter, who died but a few years ago, was the wife of John Appleton, the well known firm of publishers, D. Appleton & Co., of New York.

The old General was the last of his family, a true old school gentleman. He was an Episcopalian, always large of heart and generous and sympathetic in nature. He was a surgeon of most unusual ability. Kind-hearted, he was a favorite with both old and young and respected by all. He was a true old school gentleman, a true old school gentleman, a true old school gentleman.

The funeral was held today.

DO GOOD—IT PAYS.

A Chicago man has observed that, "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say, "My good friend, cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED.

Miss Nellie M. Stillings pleasantly entertained a party of friends at her home on Third street on Friday evening in honor of Prof. and Mrs. Stephen Panaretto who are visiting here in town from Constantinople, Turkey, where the former is an instructor in Roberts college.

During the evening members of the party entertained with musical selections both vocal and instrumental. A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. Hathorn and Attorney Arthur P. Chickering. Moses T. Stevens, Jr., favored with piano selections and Miss Sanborn with strained solos. Professor Panaretto gave a very interesting talk on Turkish history and the life of the Turks in Turkey at the present time.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess.

Andover Wins the Opening Game on Local Ground, Defeating Boston Rovers.

The Boston Rovers paid a visit to Andover last Saturday afternoon in search of points in the Merrimack Valley Association football league and incidentally opened the league season on the local grounds. The game started half an hour late and the visitors, one short, one of their men being late in arriving.

Captain Lowe of Andover lost the toss and was given the East goal. The game was only a minute old when a smart pass by Cairnie was beautifully taken by D. Falconer, who allowed Selby no chance to save. His goal gave Falconer the credit of opening the scoring for Andover for the league season of 1903-04. Give and take play followed for a time until Lowe almost had another goal. A good run by the visitors' right almost took effect but "Doug" was prominent again, the goal keeper just saving a beauty with the tips of his fingers. Shortly after Matthews scored goal No. 2 by a good shot.

At half time the score stood: Andover 2; Boston Rovers 0.

The second half opened very tamely, the strangers playing the better game. Smith soon broke the ice for Boston. This seemed to put new life into the home team and Moir scored the third goal. At this point the eleventh player for the Rovers arrived and took his place in the game. This added to their strength somewhat but they could not keep the right wing of the locals in check and he scored again. Final result: Andover 4; Boston Rovers 1. The teams were as follows:

Andover—Goal, O'Connell; backs, D. Rennie, A. Watson; halves, Matthews, Black, Smythe; forwards, Falconer, Moir, Lowe, Cairnie, G. Rennie. Rovers—Goal, Selby; backs, Graves, Brodie; halves, Marlin, Barker; forwards, Ackroyd, Forsythe, Smith, Haslam, McNulty, Boyle.

Referee, J. Hartley. Linesmen, Lynch and Williams.

Notes on the Game.

O'Connell had very little to do but he must not leave his charge open.

Watson and D. Rennie made a good pair of backs but the former was a trifle slow.

The half-backs worked hard, Matthews excelling.

Douglas Falconer at forward was the best man on the field but Moir, his partner, played well and much of the little right winger's success is due to him.

Capt. Lowe did good work, his feeding of the wings being a feature, but he should carry the ball nearer the goal before he shoots. Cairnie in his new position did better than he has done before this season, but G. Rennie was a complete failure, being too slow. He must remember that there are other forwards to pass and not try to do all the scoring himself.

As the team has won its first league match a change in the line-up would be advisable and I would suggest the selection of the following players to represent Andover against Lawrence for tomorrow: Goal, O'Connell; backs, D. Rennie and Watson; half-backs, Black, Haddon and Matthews; forwards, Falconer and Richardson; Lowe, Moir and Cairnie.

"F"

The football season with the amateur teams of town opened last Saturday afternoon, the Tigers and the Blackstockings contesting on the old P. A. campus and the Clippers struggling with the strong Blue Stockings of North Andover.

The former game was rather one-sided as the Blackstockings have a very heavy team and the advantage of having played together a number of years. The Tigers, however, put up a very snappy game and with a little more weight in the line they would have a team as good as any in the district. The Blackstockings found very little difficulty in making gains as the Tigers' centre was exceedingly weak.

In the first half of the game the Blackstockings had the ball most of the time, and by line plays they soon scored 20 points. The weight of the backs of the Blackstockings was too much for the Tigers but they tackled hard and showed to their many supporters that they were capable of handling a team of their own weight. For the Tigers, Donahue, Seacole and Brennan played a good game, while Lane, Stewart and Driscoll carried off the honors for the Blackstockings.

The line-up was as follows:

BLACKSTOCKINGS	TIGERS
Blatchford	c
Hardy	rg
Abbott	rt
Riley	re
Wright	lg
Collins	lt
Lundgren	le
Driscoll	qb
Angus	rh
Lane	rh
Stewart	fb

Score: Blackstockings 30; Tigers 0. Touchdowns, Angus 3; Stewart 2. Land-empire, Maroney. Timer, Ritchie. Time, 15 and 10 minute halves.

UNBOUNDED FAITH IN MI-O-NA

E. M. & W. A. Allen Will Refund Money if it fails to Increase Flesh and Cure Dyspepsia.

We have been in the drug business long enough to know that there are very few remedies that can be sold on a guarantee to refund the money if they do not give satisfaction.

We have sold so much Mi-on-a and seen such remarkable results following its use that we welcome the chance to convince any doubter of its merit, by offering to give with each package of Mi-on-a a written guarantee to refund the money if it does not give an increase in weight, regulate the digestion and restore health.

"If you cannot call at our store, send us the price of Mi-on-a, 50c per unit, and we will forward you a regular size box, postage paid, with the same agreement to refund the money if it does not give perfect satisfaction."

Anyone who has been losing flesh, or who has always been too thin, should use Mi-on-a. Thinness and scrawiness are signs that the food is not properly assimilated and that you do not get the nourishment from it that you should.

Mi-on-a mingles with the food you eat, aids its assimilation, tones up and strengthens the digestive organs and puts the whole system in a proper physical condition.

Remember that you risk nothing in buying Mi-on-a. If it fails to give you the desired effect, the cost is trifling. If it fails E. M. & W. A. Allen will pay for it themselves.
